

To whom it may concern,

I am writing on behalf of Leah Haley and my experiences with working with her on my film, "Orpheum". At the time, I was the writer and director of the film and I had chosen Leah to be one of the four main leads of the film. From the first audition, I knew she had to be in my film. Just looking at her vast resume spoke volumes about her experience as an actor, which I came to see was well earned.

I could see her talent and passion for acting come through during the audition. Not only did she impress me, but she also impressed the two producers and casting director. I knew right away that she was perfect for the role and that she had the skills and ability to pull of the character and make it her own. During the few table reads she had, she was completely professional and had great acting chemistry with all the other leads, which added a new dynamic to all of the actors' performances.

When it came time to film, Leah came in with a professionalism and energy that I've seen other actors fail at. She came in and underwent grueling working hours, intense make-up sessions, and a rough working environment, but she handled all of it as if it was all second nature. Her acting ability really shined through as she was very easy to work with and direct. Every person on set was delighted to work her as they all had never worked with and actress of Leah's caliber.

Looking back at her performance all these years later, she shines through in the film and she held the whole piece together. I highly recommend her as an actress for her talent and her professionalism. All of her experience and ability will shine through in any role she undertakes and anyone would exceptionally lucky to work with her.

Best,
